Areas of Practice and Expertise:

Trained in three jurisdictions, he has worked on cross-border contracts, has shaped international transactions and has played a role in international arbitrations around the globe for 30 years.

As counsel to companies, he has negotiated dozens of cross-border contracts, including complex construction, international joint ventures, company sales and cross-border investments. He has advised international organizations; and foreign companies reaching out to Europe and beyond, e.g. by setting up the legal structure for worldwide distribution and sales activities including contracts and the founding of companies in foreign jurisdictions. He has advised German industry reaching out to international markets, e.g. as lead external counsel by negotiating a complex multi-billion euro contract with the Algerian state. He has orchestrated investments from Asia to Asia and to the Americas, from the U.S. to the U.K., or from Russia to Asia. His legal work related to more than 20 industries including construction (cars, plants, ships, offshore structures), cosmetics, defence, energy (oil & gas, wind, biogas, solar), food (coffee), health, IT, machines, media (books), pharmaceuticals, real estate, satellite, telecommunication, textile, transportation, sports (sponsoring and marketing).

He has been involved in arbitration since 1983 (inter alia on an arbitration case pending at the Iran Claims Tribunal in the oil & gas sector). In recent years, he has concentrated his professional life on arbitration, an area of law in which he has been writing and teaching for many years. He has played a role in over 50 arbitrations in various capacities (and relating to 14 different set of arbitration rules). In over 20 arbitrations (including some major arbitrations and relating to over 10 different industries), he has sat as arbitrator, including chairmanship in a CIETAC arbitration (Shanghai) and in ICC and DIS arbitrations in Germany. Recently, he was involved as an expert on general principles of law and on the UNIDROIT Principles of International Commercial Contracts in one of the largest arbitrations in modern history.

Languages:

German, English, French, Italian
